*Which look do you desire?
The choice is yours.*

Do you prefer to have the doors and drawers flush with the cabinet frame? Then inset is what you are looking for. Two options are available. Choose inset with a smooth frame for a crisp, clean look or beaded inset for a more dramatic look with its routed bead on the frame. With both of these styles, you also can have either a concealed hinge or an exposed finial hinge in a variety of finishes.

If the flush look is not to your liking, then overlay doors are what you seek. There are also two choices in this style as well. There is standard overlay for a traditional look or for minimal frame reveal and more striking door appeal, choose full overlay.

With these four options and over thirty-five different door styles to choose from, your biggest challenge may be deciding which look you desire the most.

Praline on Oak

Oak

The timeless beauty of oak along with its strength and resilience creates a cozy charm to this kitchen. The custom style mullion doors give the illusion of stacked cabinetry while enhancing the Shaker look and allowing areas to showcase antiques and collectibles.

The tambour storage cabinet lets you keep your small appliances hidden out of the way but with easy access.

Maple

Maple is a hard, close-grained wood that is light colored in appearance and is accepting to light or dark finishes.

The butcher block top used for the island at right adds contrast to the all white cabinetry and creates a great focal point. The inset door style offers a crisp clean feel to the kitchen.

The impressive kitchen pictured below uses a dark Toffee finish to extend dramatic depth and opulence to the many charming Tuscan details.

Brandy on Cherry

Cherry

Cherry is a very elegant wood with a fine grain that is commonly accentuated by a variety of stain choices for a truly rich appeal.

The island in its dark color shown above is the heart of this beautiful kitchen and provides harmony and distinction. Matching the door style throughout ties it all together.

The kitchen pictured at right has built-in appliances and a wonderful cooking area which creates a stylish focal point.

Alder

Similar to cherry, the straight fine texture grain of alder makes it an attractive and economical choice for cabinetry in your home.

The chimney-style hood, mitered doors, glazed finish, and contrasting dark molding accents add the perfect decorative touches to this fashionable and inviting kitchen.

Natural on Rustic Alder

Rustic Alder

Natural elements come together to yield a warm and inviting atmosphere for this kitchen.

The stone surrounding the built-in oven blends beautifully with the rustic wood cabinetry adjoining it. The dark countertops against the clear finished wood maximize the color contrast to achieve a dramatic effect.

Hickory

Hickory's durability will withstand the lifestyle of the most active family. It is suitable in any setting and is sure to please those who love the true wood look.

Brandy stain softens the distinct wood graining of this hickory kitchen and Mission-style desk.

Varied heights can add appeal to upper cabinetry while also giving a comfortable fit to lower working spaces of a desk or other area.

The bumped out sink and staggered cabinet depths offer a contemporary flair as well as added storage space in the kitchen.

Rustic Hickory

For the ultimate in dramatic contrast, rustic hickory is the wood to choose. It's perfect for a rustic cabin or for that just right cozy feeling in any area of your home.

Simplicity is the theme in this charming country-style kitchen. The light colored finish lets the natural beauty and character of the wood shine through. The large pantry flanking the refrigerator provides plenty of storage space to keep organized and the stainless steel appliances offer present-day convenience.

Get Organized

Comfort and convenience should be the most important aspects of any room. When designing your kitchen, be certain to select space-saving accessories that will keep your work area organized.

With Great Northern Cabinetry's extensive array of easy reach storage options and accessories, you have endless ways to keep your kitchen efficient in today's busy lifestyle.

Enhance & Accessorize

Like jewelry accessorizes your clothing, your kitchen deserves the same treatment. Whether it is moldings, glass doors, decorative appliance panels, or other eye-catching features, there is a multitude of options for you to choose from to create your own personalized look.

Let your inspirations come alive. Add a versatile and functional island, customized cooking center, decorative turned posts or perhaps some open shelving to reflect your personal taste.

Vanities

Beauty extends from the kitchen to the bath.

An adjustment to the height was given to the cabinet above to define the individual sink areas without overshadowing the twin pedestal sinks in this quaint bath. The cabinet was designed to provide sufficient storage space along with a handy pullout shelf to offer temporary counter space.

In the large, luxurious master bath pictured at right, the glazed white cabinetry surrounded by marble portrays refined elegance and splendor. The finishing touches give the room a European feel.

The straight grain of oak combines with the style of inset Shakertown II doors to create clean lines and is enhanced by the rich, dark finish.

In the spacious bath pictured below, the flat panel door design utilizes matching drawer fronts to achieve definitive lines. Although it is not a spa retreat, the cabinets are adorned with a mid-toned stain on the cherry wood that yields a warm feeling and sense of relaxation.

Other Spaces

You will appreciate the wide range of cabinetry available to create your personal space and to suit your every need for all areas of your home.

Storage space was the main goal in the craft room pictured at right. Vintage meets modern in the laundry room while showcasing was the identifier for the hutch and desk shown below.

With an endless array of options, any room can become an impressive area while maintaining its practical purpose. Just identify your individual needs and have a space created with Great Northern Cabinetry that fulfills all your wishes.
